FLOOD WRECKS DORCHESTER STREETS

was affected by the break and the consequent shutting off of the current through the broken main thirty-five minutes after the torrent began to fill the street, cellars, buildings and houses. The cause of the break was not determined.

STREET CAVES IN.

Like a paver, the water shot up through the pavement after seeping into the street in smaller streams for a short time. The road surface split and crumbled, caving in and leaving a great hole, which the water rapidly filled and then overflowed.

From in front of 39 Geneva avenue, where the break occurred the water poured in all directions, but because of a grade it did not reach Blue Hill avenue, where it would have interfered even more disastrously with traffic.

Most of the water poured into the Geneva avenue garage, the Geneva Motor Mart and the home of Lake P. Mitchell at 39 Geneva avenue. It also filled Geneva avenue to its depth of a foot and shed off down hill to Columbia road and across into the Highland Laundry kept the water out, but employees trying to get in to work could get nowhere near it.

Because of the flood was reported fire headquarters began receiving calls from stations reporting that water pressure was dropping. Emergency measures were immediately planned.

Car service through that section of Geneva avenue may be blue-bled as far as the outbound tracks are concerned, for more than 74 hours, Boston Elevated Railway officials declared.

One report received here placed the number of persons missing in the disaster at 350.

The Principessa Matilde, reported by the fastest in the European-South American service, and en route from Genoa to Rio Janeiro and Buenos Aires, sank near the Abrolhos Rocks, 30 miles southeast from the island and about 40 miles off the coast from Caravelas, midway between Bahia and Rio Janeiro.

Word received here by wireless and at Pernambuco said that the accident occurred at 11:10 p. m. and that the ship was on a collision course with the Principessa Matilde, which was on a collision course with the Principessa Matilde, which was on a collision course with the Principessa Matilde.

only the scantiest of details concerning the disaster.

The Principessa Matilde was in command of Captain Simon Gull, a veteran mariner, aged fifty-five. She was due here yesterday and was to have gone to Pernambuco, where she was to arrive Saturday. The ship sailed from Genoa October 19 and Barcelona, Spain, October 20.

The first news of the disaster reached here when the Bahia radio station reported hearing numerous calls for aid being relayed by ships which had picked up the Principessa Matilde's distress signal.

Rocks a Menace

The Principessa Matilde's position was given as latitude 16 degrees 43 minutes south, longitude 47 degrees, 41 minutes west.

The Abrolhos rocks, or Ilhas de Santa Barbara, where the wreck occurred, are 30 miles southeast from Balice Point and occupy a space of about 14 miles.

Devils Harbor, the largest inlet, 131 feet above high water, is about three-quarters of a mile in length by 250 yards in breadth and has a lighthouse near the eastern extremity. The other islets are exceedingly small.

The Principessa Matilde, which was built in Genoa in 1908, was christened for Princess Matilde, a 15-year-old daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, who married Princess Sophie of Greece in 1908.

Until four years ago, the ship, which is a twin screw steel steamer of 3,210 tons, was the fastest ship flying between Italy and South America. The boat was built primarily for South American trade and visited the United States only once, in 1914.

More than seven years ago the liner, while on route from Buenos Aires to Italy, was erroneously reported to have struck a mine and sunk with 700 passengers.

During the World War the Italian Government used the boat as a troop ship.

WANT HENNESSEY FOR JUDGE IN DORCHESTER

Governor Fuller was urged today by a group of Dorchester residents, including three legislators, to appoint Senator William J. Hennessey of that district an associate justice of the Dorchester court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge William P. Morris.

Assistant United States Attorney Elms D. Storr is among others mentioned for the place.

SLAYER OF MOTHER OF 5 GIVEN 30-YEAR TERM

Providence, Oct. 26 (A.P.)—Nicola Calaceo, thirty-nine, who on July 13 shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Josephine Di Mauro, mother of five children, who supported him, was sentenced to thirty years in Superior Court today.

Calaceo shot Mrs. Di Mauro twelve times in the abdomen, and the sin was priced at $5 a quart.

The prohibition raiders asserted that there was a detailed system of securing a drink at the Adams House, if one was known or was felt to be safe.

NAB 5 IN ADAMS HOUSE RAID

Scherberg and Shue were held in bail of $1,000 each for a hearing later. Scherberg had given his name as Samuel Weiner, but he told his right name after Commissioner Denney mentioned having sentenced a defendant to six months recently for giving a false name.

The other three men were booked at station 2 and were to be arraigned later before the Federal authorities.

Of the liquor seized almost nine quarts were made up of individual "quarts" of 75¢, 50¢ or 25¢ each, of which "nips" retailed at 75¢.

Or—this is still the prohibition raiders' story—a thirty man could go into the barbers shop and tell of his thirst there, securing a drink if he was judged a good risk.

Test Shows 37 Per Cent. of Lynn School Girls Are 'Skinny'

A survey made by Richard J. Schmoeyer, director of physical education in the Lynn school department, showed that out of 153 girls in the sophomore class at Lynn Classical High School, 57 percent have been found to be underweight and "skinny."

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols announced today that he was very much pleased with the continued improvement of his wife, who has been critically ill at Boston City Hospital since becoming a mother more than a week ago.

The mayor said that on his morning visit he found his wife bright and cheerful, beginning to take an interest in things, and apparently relieved of a slight pain in which she suffered in the morning.

MRS. NICHOLS GAINING FAST

Secretary Edward F. Condon, who is working with the mayor in his temporary office in the trustees room at the hospital, said that thousands of messages of sympathy have been received, including hundreds from mayors of cities throughout the country.

FALL KEPT OIL SECRET FROM COL. ROOSEVELT

From Frank E. Kistler, president of the Producers & Refiners Corporation, a prospective bidder, Owen J. Roberts, special oil counsel, drew testimony that after Fall had proved used to testify Kistler if it was decided to lease the reserve, Kistler got his first information that the lease had been consummated by reading newspapers.

Amos L. Slocum, chairman of the board of the Teapot Oil Company, testified that his company had offered terms for the exchange of fuel for crude oil from the reserve which figured higher than the Sinclair terms. He also learned first of the lease through the newspapers, but saw no effort at secrecy by Fall.

During the session Fall again was active, interrupting Sinclair counsel at one point in suggest additional questions be asked of witnesses on cross-examination.

No Clothes at All Is Their Style

If Countess Marie Amelie Marcelle Vernet-Lord, beautiful wife of Horace Wilfred Lord, Boston school instructor, had not been stabbed to death in Nice, the story of a charming French society lady, poised as a beastie but horrified Eve at the edge of an American's Parisian swimming pool, might never have been told.

The murder of Countess Vernet-Lord, alleged to have been committed by a love-maddened former Russian guardsman, and their affiliations with a love cult on the Riviera, led to stern investigation of other love cults, with startling revelations.

Even the unclad French society woman, who blanched her pink skin to a frightened white when she sighted a gallery of cult members not then working at it other than to observe her and other prominent men and women Parisians being initiated, was no more startled than are the investigators.

They have unearthed now a cult operating as the "Nietsche Colony" on a high plateau 1,700 feet above the Mediterranean, and presided over by a German called Dr. Goldberg.

FIGHTS HUSBAND'S CHARGES

MRS. IDELLA M. WENTWORTH
The twice married mate of the Boston commission merchant heard several witnesses in Middlesex Probate Court today.

STAR WITNESS
Mrs. Elizabeth Russell was grilled for four hours on what she revealed about Mrs. Wentworth's alleged relations with Young. It is alleged Wentworth and two friends found his wife and Young together in a raid on his home.

GIRL BRIDE AT 15

LEAVES SCHOOL TO WED

CUPID GUEST OF HONOR AT Y. W. C. A.

By FRANCES L. BAIRD.
"Calling corners" screened for privacy, without chaperones and furnished with deep chairs, sofas and soft lights are the newest move in the Y. W. C. A. matrimonial campaign for Boston girls.

"Places where girls who have no suitable place in which to entertain their sweethearts may come and be as much at ease as if in their own homes," explained Mrs. Charles Todd Wolfe, executive secretary of the Boston Y. W. C. A.

These cozy corners, in a luxurious big living room adjoining the dance hall, will be a feature of the new million-dollar Community Activities Center of the Y. W. C. A. the construction of which will be laid to-morrow noon at Stewart and Clarendon streets.

ENGAGEMENTS ANNOUNCED.
In support of her avowed alliance with Cupid, Mrs. Wolfe pointed out that two of her young girl secretaries have announced their engagements recently, and that she and another secretary are married.

"Just to show you how I foster these romances I shall tell you how I gave up my office to a couple who showed they wanted to be alone, she went on. "They had evidently not seen each other for some time and there were so many persons moving through the reception room that I went up to the girl and asked her if she would feel more comfortable in a room alone with her young man."

THEY WERE GRATEFUL.
They looked like an engaged couple and such a heavenly look of gratitude went over her face when I offered to vacate my private office. They sat on my office sofa till 9 o'clock that night. And that is only one romance we have helped along. Cupid always gets a welcome in this association."

WIFE SAYS SHE NEVER KISSED 'OTHER MAN'

Taking the witness stand in her own defense in the Middlesex Probate Court today, Mrs. Idella M. Wentworth of Somerville denied charges made by her husband, Frank Elmer Wentworth, who is seeking a divorce, that she had been too friendly with Patrick Young, gas filling station employee.

Under questioning by Attorney John P. Feeney, Mrs. Wentworth denied kissing or hugging Young, declared that her husband had never accused her of impropriety with the filling station man prior to the separation, and that Wentworth was very friendly to her the night before he left home.

An attempt on the part of Attorney Feeney to introduce evidence that Wentworth had been friendly with two girls, with whom he posed as a single man, was ruled out by Judge Harris. Exceptions were taken by Attorney Feeney.

Wentworth, who is a commission merchant in Boston and lives in Pearl street, Somerville, is eight years his wife's junior, Mrs. Wentworth being 25.

Previous testimony had been offered by the husband of various alleged pasting parties which he claimed to have witnessed between his wife and Young, whom he named as "the other man."

Mrs. Wentworth was questioned by Attorney Feeney.

Q—Mrs. Wentworth, on May 13 or on June 3 or any other time were you ever intimate with Patrick Young? A—No.

Q—Did you ever sit on the side of a bed with Patrick Young and embrace him? A—No.

Q—Did you ever hug and kiss each other? A—No.

Q—Did your husband ever accuse you of any undue familiarity with Patrick Young prior to leaving you? A—No.

Q—Did you know on the morning of the day he left you that he was leaving not to return? A—No, sir.

Poor Little Rich Boy Forced by Destiny to Be a King ~ Wants Only to Be a Happy Reg'lar Feller

HE'D RATHER PLAY INDIAN AND COWBOY

Baby "King Mickey," whom destiny has decreed shall be Michael Rex, of Rumania, is one of the most pathetic figures of modern royal history. He wants to be just a happy little boy with his pony and his dog and his kite and his toys, and they are forcing on him the stern duties that go with a crown, a throne and a kingdom.

HE WANTS TO SCOOT THROUGH LIFE

He'd heep rather ride the scooter Grandma bought when she visited America, and swipe his jam and live like other boys with fun and dreams and aspirations. But he's got a million a year and his crown, when they finally force it on him, is apt to feel like a crown of thorns.

'CALL ME MICKEY, PLEASE'

He likes wading on the Black Sea beach, too, and he'd much rather folks would call him Mickey than "Your Majesty." He doesn't know anyway why they changed his name to that!

BETTER'N ANY KINGLY CHARIOT!

The baby king, whose throne, even before he mounts it, is beset with intrigue occasioned by his father, Carol, who renounced it for love of a woman and now wants it back, likes to run errands for his mother. When he's good she gives him a nickel.

RED CROSS NEEDS MONEY IS TOLD HUB

An increase of nearly two million members in the National Red Cross is looked for in the next year, according to James A. McMillan, of Washington, financial adviser to the central committee.

The need of additional membership and the resultant increase in revenue were stressed by McMillan, speaking today before the Metropolitan Chapter of the Red Cross at the Chamber of Commerce.

"Membership in the Red Cross may well be considered as a duty of good citizenship," he said.

"During the year the Red Cross raised $1,000,000 in disaster campaigns, particularly in connection with the Florida and Mississippi disasters. The question is asked why an increase in membership is necessary in view of these receipts."

COSTS MILLION A YEAR.

The answer is that for five years the Red Cross has spent more than a million dollars a year for disaster relief beyond amounts raised in relief campaigns.

The Red Cross has had to cope with ninety-seven disasters in the past year, the largest number since the minor disasters, involving expenditures of $100,000 to $250,000 each, it was impossible to make national appeal. At one time the organization was handling fourteen separate disasters.

NOVABLES PRESENT.

C. A. Rabelesky, chairman, and Eliot Wadsworth, former national treasurer, described the work of the Red Cross. Among those present were Col. Kenneth Knox, publisher of the Hearst papers in Boston, Miss Lavina H. Newell, Dr. George H. Bigelow, Allan Forbes, Mrs. C. C. Ely, John Brodhead, Arthur G. Ratch, Robert Lincoln O'Brien of the Boston Herald, John W. Roth, Mrs. Frances Sawyer, Henry T. Claus of the Transcript, Miss Lee botha, Mrs. James J. Storrow, Jr., Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, Mrs. Bowen Tuttle and John H. Wallace.

FLIERS PAY TRIBUTE AT AUTO VICTIM'S GRAVE

Airplanes circled Medford Hillside and the Oak Grove Cemetery in West Medford this afternoon during the funeral of Charles Lawrence Murch, a member of the Boston Transcript staff. The young man was injured in an automobile collision two weeks ago. His death occurred Saturday after an unsuccessful operation to relieve internal bleeding.

Murch, though only nineteen years of age last June, had taken an active interest in aviation and had made several flights from the airport in various type planes.

The church services were conducted by Rev. John Page, pastor of the Hillside Universalist Church, and Rev. D. J. Nelly, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Medford. The pallbearers were George H. Ford, Theodore Holland, Russell Gage, Carleton Bell, Warren Colby and Daniel Rockford.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Mrs. N. Penrose Hallowell Takes Charge of Junior Supper Dances Again This Season

HOW EXTREMELY FORTUNATE IS THE JUNIOR SUPPER DANCE set to have as leader Mrs. N. Penrose Hallowell. Very astute is this important matron, suave and experienced in the social game. Her decrees this season endow the Supper Dances with an importance all their own. She has reduced the number of dances to three. And put them all into the frivolous calendar of late February and early March. But are very wise moves indeed, as is readily to be seen. For by that time the season's debutantes will have moved off the scene and what is more important, young college men with the bogus "exam" behind them will be free to play the squires of dames.

THE SUPPER DANCE DATES GO DOWN IN ENGAGEMENT BOOKS OF THE young people so fortunate as to be on the list for the evenings of February 13 and 24, and March 16. And as usual the dances go along in the handsome outline of the Hotel Copple-Pike that has for these several seasons housed both supper-dance series, the Juniors and their forerunners, the Seniors. To the debutante they count not at all, that bright young thing being rightly excluded except for a fortunate dance or two to the final one. Powers that be consider the bud has a full program, so the dances are dedicated entirely to her elder sisters.

MRS. NATHANIEL EMMONS IS SCOUTING ABOUT THE COUNTRY for collecting most delectable jams and jellies for her table at the Ritz of St. Christopher. I wager that in the entire bazaar there'll be no more well-filled stall or a more energetic saleswoman than Mrs. Emmons. When she sets a high mark for her achievement she's sure to reach that mark and even top it, and for the Christopher Shop her sale is very high indeed.

FINE OLDTIME JAMS AND PRESERVES WILL BE THE MAIN STANDBY, AND as a special attraction comes kidney stew, prepared after a famous chef and put in glass jars the better for transportation. And toothsome flaky pies, real New England style, the sort that grandmothers were supposed to have made in days gone by. The bazaar takes its busy way until six in the evening of November 8, at the Copple-Pike. So matrons concerned with the bazaar of the afternoon and the Charity Ball of the evening, are entertaining at informal suppers in the intervals between the two. Mrs. Emmons, Mrs. Judd Dewey and Mrs. Francis Minot are sustaining them.

MRS. EMMONS HAS MESDAMES ROBERT TREAT PAINE, FRANCIS MINOT, Hollis Shaw, Stevens Fairbanks, Judd Dewey, Richard Lawrence, Jacob C. Ritz, E. M. Orlin and Bartlett Guild in her train as saleswomen. Really a grand affair, quite unbeatable, and one that Mrs. Emmons invariably gathers about her when she would while the sheikhs from their orders to enrich a charity. Mrs. Hollis Shaw, by the way, goes abroad very shortly with Mr. Shaw for a month or six weeks on the other side. They sail early in November.

FROM MR. AND MRS. JOHN G. M. GLESSNER OF 'THE LEDGE' AT LITTLETON, N. H., comes announcement of their daughter's betrothal. Miss Emily Forsyth Glessner is the affianced of James Latimer McLane, a young Baltimorean, son of Judge Allan McLane and Mrs. McLane of the Monumental City. No date is as yet announced for the nuptial. It was not so very long ago that "The Ledge" was the scene of an important bridal when Miss Emily Glessner's elder sister was the central figure.

SPEAKING OF ENGAGEMENTS, WHEN THE SMALL GOD SNARED MISS Eleanor Perkins, he enmeshed one of last season's most popular girls. She was a decided social success from the very first moment she appeared on the scene. There were suitors galore during her first season, that commenced formally with a luncheon, when she and Miss Eleanor Holton essayed the social sea together. Miss Perkins is the fiancée of a Harvard student, Charles Terry Collins, and so is likely to be a June bride. But whatever the month she decides to do the bridal white, she'll be charming to look upon. She's that sort of girl.

LIKE ITS FAR NEIGHBORS OF THE QUANSETT, NORFOLK AND Myopia Hunt, the Jacobs Hill Hunt set never misses an Autumn meet or a go at its favorite Autumn sport. Benjamin L. Cook is M. P. H. of the lively aggregation, and has planned activities that bring out the bounds and horses thrice weekly and winds up on Saturday next with an afternoon appointment at Mr. Doune's arm. Tomorrow's appointment is for seven in the morning, at Miss Wheeler's school, and yesterday's was at Mr. Kenzie's Farm. The Jacobs Hill people have a fine wild country for their hunting, miles and miles of almost unspoiled territory adjacent to their pleasant clubhouse in Boston, near Providence.

THE BARTOL FAMILY CONTINUES TO SHOWER GIFTS UPON the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Their very latest donation to enrich the Museum will find place in the New Wing for Western Art. It is to be thrown open to a waiting public. Mary W. Bartol, John W. Bartol and Abigail W. Clark are the donors of Hopewellville, Sherron and Chippendale pieces, some Duncan Phyfe tables, mahogany chairs dated 1830, a secretary of 1750, and an English card table dating back to the 18th century. Lovers of the fine things of other days will find the Western Wing a veritable palace of treasures.

Fay Wray May Be Starred in 'Abie's Irish Rose'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.
Los Angeles, Oct. 26.—The little Wray girl—Fay, I mean—who was selected to play the role of "Abie's Irish Rose" in the new Broadway musical comedy, "Abie's Irish Rose," is a young girl who will play the leading role in "Abie's Irish Rose." Ann Nichols appears thoroughly as Fay Wray, and since there does not appear to be any other girl who does not approve, this is another reason to believe the story.

Much was written about Lupa Weiss, the little Mexican girl, when she played opposite Douglas Fairbanks in "The Sign of the Cross." Then she didn't hear anything else about her, again—this time in "Stand and Deliver." Rod La Rocque's next picture.

Elinor Glynn has reportedly said that Rex, her horse, has "it." Some one has written to tell Rex of Mrs. Glynn's diagnosis, for now Rex has taken into himself a new heart, a new horse with romantic name of Starlight. Rex is willing to do for his man what the other successful stars do for their best girl. He is giving her a chance in the new picture, "Wild Wood." She plays opposite him. Others in the cast of this farcical horse opera are Evelyn Clair, Neeson McDowell, Henry McCoy and Theodore Lerch.

Believe it or not—Lola Wilson plays the vamp in "French Dressing" and Lillian Tashman the good girl. If Lola Wilson looks on the screen like she did when she was making the scene, my advice to her would be to play nothing else but vamps.

While I was out on the "French Dressing" set, Allan Dean called my attention to the black sheets on the bed in "French Dressing." He said: "I've come to Hollywood to find out black sheets are so full. Hollywood may take exception to that, for black sheets may be movie Hollywood, but not Hollywood outside of the film."

"Wall Flowers," by Temple Bailey, one of the best sellers in the book store, has been purchased by P. B. O., simply because it had such a wide circulation among the fans of the country. Joan Arthur will create Miss Bailey's hero in for the screen, and Lola Todd will play her sister.

The cast, I fancy, is complete, for the last number of "French Dressing" set, Allan Dean called my attention to the black sheets on the

182ND MASS. INFANTRY OLDEST U. S. ARMY UNIT

Washington, Oct. 26 (A.P.)—The 182nd Infantry, Massachusetts National Guard, originally organized in 1636 as the North Regiment of the Massachusetts Bay colony, is the oldest unit in the army.

Historical records made at the Army War College have verified the history of 112 of the 331 color bearing units in the present National Guard.

The origin of the 182nd Infantry is among the best and the record shows it to have been in continuous existence, though under several designations, since 1636.

tor-truck mechanic, was on his way from Brockton to Boston in a fast truck owned by the concern for which he worked. He was trailed by a second truck which was to take him back to Brockton. As the trucks pulled out of Brockton, Taylor was signalled by three men in the lead truck to stop. Instead, he put on full speed and fled toward Braintree, leaving the other truck behind.

In a flash two automobiles set out after him. A small coupe, said to be owned by Walsh, overtook Taylor several times between Brockton and Braintree, but each time by skillful driving, he eluded capture. Finally, as both speeding machines approached Braintree, on Washington street, near the Norfolk County Hospital, the mechanic's car was trapped and forced off the road into a clump of bushes.

The robber, according to Taylor, leaped from his car, pulled out a black and ordered him to hold up his hands.

"I hate to do this, buddy, but I need the money. Give it over," he ordered. Taylor handed over $25 the third time.

During the race between Taylor and the robber, the second car, containing the two unidentified men and two girls, lagged behind, effectively blocking the road of the driver of the second truck who could not force ahead to aid Taylor.

Repeatedly the truck driver tried to veer to the side of the road to get ahead and each time the one-seater car, risking a crash, swung over in front of him. When the other truck and second automobile neared Braintree, the latter put on a wild burst of speed and disappeared.

Taylor reported the holdup to the Braintree police, furnishing the registration numbers of the holdup car, a Connecticut plate.

John P. Hepler broadcast an alarm. Patrolman Nelson and Pralgo joined up Hurland a short distance from the scene. Later, police said they found Walsh's abandoned automobile with his cap still on the running board.

Patrolman McDonald and Lyons of the Brockton police, two hours later, arrested Walsh in his home.

It's Turkey Stealing Time Around Weymouth

October 25 is turkey stealing time in Weymouth, the police of that town declared today as they gumbled fruitlessly, lather and lye.

It appears that Charles Chalmers of Middle street, East Weymouth, a turkey raiser, lost thirty of his choicest birds, which he was fattening for the Thanksgiving market, on the anniversary of the first of 100 turkeys from South Weymouth.

The police in both cases were unable to find finger prints or other clues, although they suspect that the loot was taken away in a truck.

ATTORNEY PLEADS GUILTY TO LARCENY OF STOCKS

Attorney George A. Sweetser of Weymouth today pleaded guilty before Judge in Superior Criminal Court to two counts of larceny of stocks, valued at $1100, obtained by him from the Weymouth Savings and Loan Association until the January term.

MYSTERY VEILS AMUNDSEN ACT

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.)—After arriving in this country ten days ago, Roald Amundsen, noted explorer, came under some mysterious influence in the opinion of his friends and unannounced departure from America, in the opinion of his friends, his lecture manager.

Amundsen, who was to have given a several months' lecture tour next week, and was to have received a good deal of money for his tour, yesterday, called for his lecture manager, and said he was sorry he could not give the tour.

"I have been Amundsen's lecture manager for fourteen years," Roald Amundsen said, "and we have been the best of friends. I cannot understand his action except that something has happened after he got here to make it absolutely necessary for him to leave."

"We signed our contract last January, Amundsen himself making the terms. When he came over this time he at first expressed himself as entirely satisfied and then suddenly began making demands."

FOUR SEIZED AS WINDOW THUGS

Four youths, believed by the police to have been members of the window-smashing band operating in Greater Boston, were captured after a chase in a stolen automobile, in West Roxbury today. They were charged with breaking out windows and larceny of the auto.

The young men, who gave their names as Frank E. O'Connor, David E. Fleming, James Sullivan and Louis Leons, were taken into custody by Patrolmen Phillips and Connolly, who said a car was found in the car together with foot stool, from the West Roxbury Post, American Legion.

SWEETHEARTS OF THIRTY YEARS AGO WED IN REVERE

Living in the same city for ten years, each without the other knowing it, Salvatore Scardario and Mrs. Josephine L. Giordanni of Revere, who were sweethearts nearly thirty years ago in Italy, met by chance on the beach recently. They were married today in the council chamber of Revere City Hall, where Dr. John E. Walsh, the Mayor, and other city officials saw the ceremony performed by City Clerk Albert J. Brown.

Francis P. O'Neill, Boston Evening American reporter, was best man, and Miss Josephine M. Barry, city purchasing agent, was maid of honor.

Mrs. Giordanni, who lives in Highland street, was married in 1897, whose home is in East Boston, was married in 1897, who went together in Milan, Italy, in their school days but drifted apart, eventually coming to America.

BERLIN STANDS BY DAWES PLAN

Berlin, Oct. 25 (A.P.)—The Dawes plan under no circumstances will be endangered by Germany's financial policy, Finance Minister Koelliker assured the League committee of the Reichstag today.

The government, now as ever, he declared, stands by the Dawes plan, and lends the full weight of its authority to the fulfillment of its terms.

From 1924 to 1927, the Finance Minister explained, Germany's expenditures increased by about 1,500,000,000 marks, totaling for 1927 $1,700,000,000 marks (about $1,350,000,000).

HUNT MAN FOR ATTACK ON HAVERHILL GIRL

Methuen, Oct. 24 (A.P.)—Methuen police have joined with the Haverhill department in a search for James Dolan of Pennsylvania, working as a salesman in Haverhill, who is wanted on charges made by Laura Hoses, 17-year-old Haverhill High School girl that she was forced to jump from Dolan's car early Monday morning in the Pleasant Valley section of Methuen with the result that she fractured her nose and left wrist and broke three teeth.

In company with Florida Cook, another 17-year-old Haverhill girl, she accepted a ride from Dolan and a companion in Salem, N. H., and leaped from the car when Dolan is alleged to have made improper advances. A man named Sheehan is also sought by the authorities as being Dolan's companion.

FORBES TO TAKE PILOT QUIT'S PAUPER'S OATH

Leavenworth Kan., Oct. 24 (A.P.)—Charles R. Forbes, former director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, serving a two-year sentence in Federal Penitentiary here for conspiracy to defraud a government today made application to take the pauper's oath, which must be signed in lieu of $10,000 fine, due when his sentence expires tomorrow. As a self-sufficient man must serve 30 days in prison.

Forbes told United States Commissioner Bond he would sign the oath November 26, at the expiration of his extra 30 days in jail.

MRS. GRAYSON

Old Orchard Beach, Me., Oct. 24 (A.P.)—Strained relations between Mrs. Francis Wilson Grayson and her American to Copenhagen pilot, Stultz, today reached the breaking point.

Stultz, it became known, has decided to step aside and let somebody else guide the Sikorsky amphibian plane "The Dawn" overseas, if she can get this year.

It is making known his intention to quit the Grayson expedition, Stultz declared, "I have done my best. The expedition is all bungled up. I've got a good proposition elsewhere and I'm going to take it."

INJURY KEEPS CURLEY ABED

Former Mayor James M. Curley, who sustained a broken left leg by falling down a staircase at the Cambridge Hospital, was kept in bed today that he remained in bed.

By a coincidence his son, James M. Curley, Jr., was involved in an auto accident within 24 minutes of the time his father was hurt, when the car he was driving, a 1926 Ford, struck a tree on Charles street, Boston, fracturing the arm of David M. Moseley, 24, of the street.

The former Mayor was leaving the hospital when, turning to wave farewell to George E. Phillips, a patient, he lost his footing and fell.

ASK CONGRESS FOR SPECIAL LINDY MEDAL

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS JR.
Washington, Oct. 25.—Congress at the coming session will promptly agree in some extraordinary and enduring form to the greatest feat of the Federal government to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh for the conquest which the nobility of his character and the valor of his deeds have added to the honor of his flag, the Glorious of Congress, a gold medal struck especially in his honor and a permanent place on the retired list of the regular army as a Lieutenant Colonel will be the form in which Congress will take cognizance of the country's obligation to Colonel Lindbergh. If proposals now under consideration are adopted.

OLIVER ASPARAGUS GETTING INTO THE SPIRIT OF THINGS HAS APPLIED TO THE FEDERAL RADIO COMMISSION

OLIVER ASPARAGUS getting into the spirit of things has applied to the Federal Radio Commission. He wants to move to the best part of Brooklyn, N. Y., his wife wants to move. But his wife's energy, Alvin Oliver claims, is the only thing that is about him and he wants a new one. "All the left collectors know my old number," says Oliver. This remark was attributed to Mr. Asparagus.

Cheese has recently been hailed as one of the most delectable of food-luxuries. Have discovered that cheese is really delectable and that it is one of the most versatile of foods. Women who pride themselves on preparing dainty, new dishes of appetizing, digestion and succulent foods are using cheese in its many forms for luncheon, dinner and sandwiches.

The delectable sandwich scope in which cheese may help suppress is just being discovered. Here are a few new sandwiches which any housewife or hostess may easily make, thereby becoming its recognized and admired and envied hostess in the community. No matter what the entertainment of the evening, novel and tasty refreshments are always connected with them.

Ground Opa Sandwich—Toast a slice of bread on one side, or if the unsalted side with a thin slice of cooked ham. Put a layer of melted cheese on the ham. Place a thick slice of tomato on top and a slice of white pickles and mustard. Broil under a flame until the cheese melts. Serve immediately. Cold sliced chicken may be used in stead of the ham.

Cheese Club Sandwich—Mix slices of cheese or snappy cheese, salt, sliced bacon, three tomatoes, twelve slices toast, mustard, salt and pepper, lettuce, French dressing.

Lay slices of cheese on half toast, spread well with mustard then lay on the other slice of toast on each portion of cheese, sprinkle with salt and pepper, add the bacon and lettuce which has been previously dressed. Cover with remaining toast, cut across diagonally and serve immediately.

Montauk Sandwich—Toast a slice of bread on one side. On the unsalted side, place a slice of snappy cheese. On the cheese lay a slice of a peeled tomato, cut up in bits, sprinkle with sugar, salt, pepper, finely minced green pepper and onion. Put a slice of bacon on this and place under a broiling flame until the cheese is melted and browned.

Cheese Dreams—Two cups grated cheese, one tablespoon butter, one egg, one quarter teaspoon salt, six slices bread, one-half teaspoon paprika, one-half teaspoon mustard, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, salt, sliced bacon.

Put the butter, egg and seasonings in the grated cheese, and mix to a paste. Spread thick on bread and put a piece of bacon on top of each. Bake in a moderately hot oven for 10 minutes. Serve very hot, accompanied by slices of pickles.

LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorised by Mr. Edison)

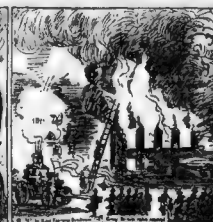

Text by Arthur Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

Edison has had considerable experience with fire. You recall that as a boy he was whipped in the public square for setting fire to a barn. At the M-alo Park laboratory, through the carelessness of an employee, some other exploded and the firemen had to be called.

The firemen played the hose through the smashed windows. Hundreds of bottles of chemicals were overturned or broken and, as the firemen went away, they were overcome by the fumes. Many were given medical attention. Fortunately most of the loss was in chemicals.

Fire followed the inventor soon the field of electrical illumination. On January 2, 1880, when the Pearl street power station of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company had been in operation eight years, it was partly destroyed by flames. Being out of date it was not rebuilt.

But Edison's greatest fire disaster was the burning of his great manufacturing plant at Orange, N. J., in 1914. While the fire was at its height, he turned to his manager and said, "Well, Wilson, she's a gooner, but we'll build her bigger and better than ever!"

Dr. Reed on the Meaning of Industrial Welfare

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M.D.

YOU may or may not be an industrial worker. By this I mean one engaged in some sort of industrial enterprise. But whether you are employer or employee you are interested in the welfare of the worker.

The following are offered by Reed as the basis and subdivisions of the scope of welfare work in a large factory.

Health. This includes the cleanliness of workshops and their efficient ventilation, lighting, and heating; sanitation, protective devices and clothing; rest rooms and cloak rooms, first aid and ambulance, medical, dental and general services, and the canteen.

Education. This includes instruction in industrial hygiene, technical training, practical training and the maintenance of a library, also courses on hygiene factors and industrial safety. Many are also in a canteen, and the industrial and inter-work units are very instructive and stimulating.

Education. The workers must be able to do their work. This is done by giving them instruction in industrial hygiene, technical training, practical training and the maintenance of a library, also courses on hygiene factors and industrial safety. Many are also in a canteen, and the industrial and inter-work units are very instructive and stimulating.

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In this case, says Mr. Whitehead, it is essential to play the bidding and play of the above hands. It is in the method. These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy." It is a matter of four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Salient Points of the Bidding: South, with a good hand, would have bid 1-2-3-4 in preference to No Trump, even if the latter had been bid. By this method, the King of Clubs, held by the Major, would be bid by his partner, and no better than an original bid of himself in a later Major, and no good reason to bid his partner's suit by bidding his own.

Salient Points of the Play: Trick 1. Declarer sees that by ruffing two rounds of Diamonds he can make a trick from, losing 1-1. But should the King of Spades be held by East he must capture it by using Dummy's Spade. He led through it, instead of using them for ruffing.

Trick 4. West's play of the 10 of Spades to Tr. 4, 3 places East with four Spades in the King, preventing two more finesses for its capture. Accordingly, declarer again plays Dummy's in with a Club for the second time.

Trick 10. South leads his last trump to force the adversaries to further discarding. West discards his good Jack of Diamonds to protect his King of Clubs, hoping that his partner holds the ten of Diamonds. East, anticipating this, partner's difficulty, has carefully retained a singleton in Diamonds, and now discards a small Diamond rather than the ten of Hearts, as being less enlightening to the leader.

Trick 12. The discard of West's last Diamond does not fit in with the King of Clubs. Declarer finesse and makes a Grand slam.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your bridge problems. Write in full care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.
